

Using your CJournal E-mail

The purpose of the CJournal Email

Our students sometimes run into issues with sources saying that they did not realize they were being interviewed by a journalist and/or that stories about them would be published. It is important for all reporters to clearly inform sources that they are talking to a journalist, and that the story may be published in the Calgary Journal, either in print or online, or both.

To help you do this, cjournal.ca email addresses are journalism-specific emails created during your first year of the program. Every journalism student will be required to use the cjournal email for communication with sources (along with a standard signature at the bottom of the email – see ‘retrieving and managing your email’ below.)

Reporter’s CJournal email address (in the format described below) will be included with any story published in the Calgary Journal print or online, so you may be contacted by readers, news sources and others wishing to pass on their comments and/or story tips.

It’s important that you treat all such contacts professionally and respectfully, and that you respond to reader emails when warranted. However, you should also use caution when responding to unsolicited emails, and not divulge personal information such as your home address.

IMPORTANT: Please use this only for Journal-related business, as it will only be available as long as you are a student.

Your Cjournal email address

Your e-mail address will follow a standard format, which is:

the first initial of your first name + your last name@cjournal.ca (lowercase) (Hence, for Don Smith, the email would be: dsmith@cjournal.ca)

*Note – if your last name is hyphenated, the email will be the full hyphenated name, including the hyphen. EG: dsmith-jones@cjournal.ca. If your last name contains spaces or any special characters (like a period or apostrophe), these will be removed. EG: Erin St. John would be estjohn@cjournal.ca. Email bsimm@mtroyal.ca if you would like to change this.

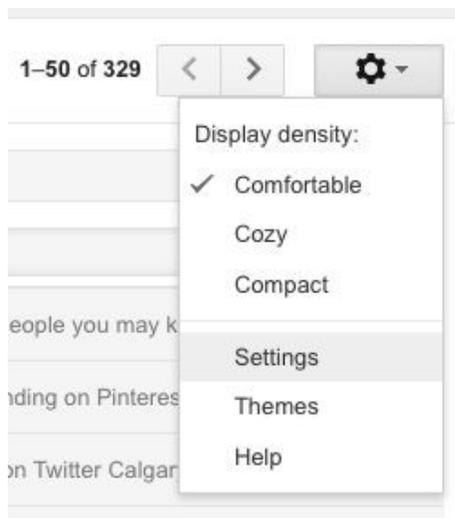

Retrieving and Managing your CJournal Email

All students are required to add their cjournal email accounts to their current mtroyal gmail accounts. If you have any problems, email Brad Simm at bsimm@mtroyal.ca.

STEP ONE: Configure mtroyal Gmail to SEND from cjournal account.

1. Add your cjournal email to gmail

Login to your mtroyal GMAIL account, go to the top right 'gear' icon, then 'settings'

2. Click on Accounts tab, then by Send mail as: click 'Add another email address you own.'

3. Enter your name, CJournal email, keep 'Treat as an alias' checked and click on 'Next Step.'

4. At the next page, enter the following information then click 'Add Account'

SMTP Server: mail.cjournal.ca

Username: yourname@cjournal.ca (make sure to include the full address)

Password: last six digits of your student ID

Leave all else as is

Your account will be added and set to both send and receive emails.

Send a test mail to your Cjournal account from an external account to make sure it is working. You may also get a duplicate of the verification email from google@mtroyal.ca - feel free to delete these.

From now on when sending from Gmail, you will have the option of choosing your CJournal account by clicking on the little drop down arrow in the 'From' field:

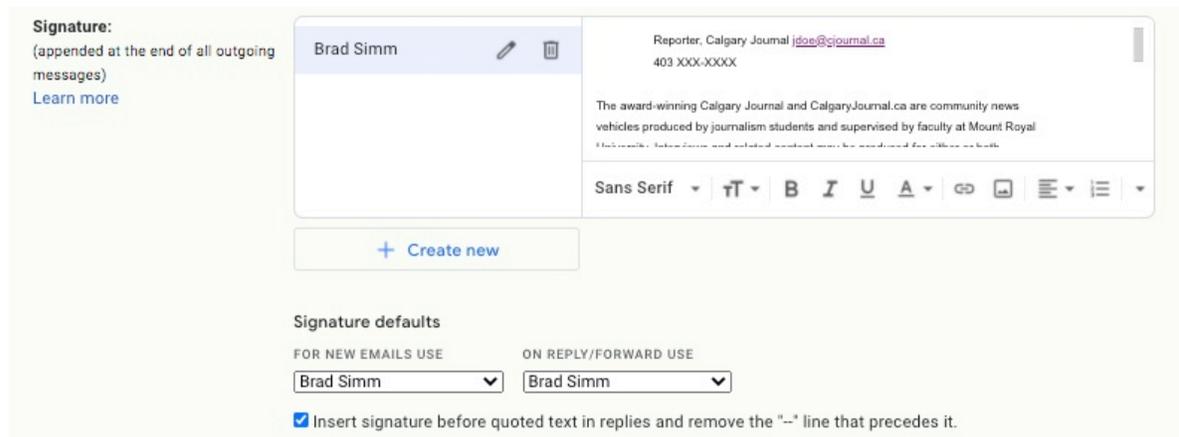

Always send from your cjournal email when communicating with sources, etc.

Important Note: Make sure you check your SPAM folder frequently in Gmail as sometimes real emails may end up there.

Adding the standard email signature to GMAIL

The following standard signature and contact information needs to be included on all CJournal emails:

1. Go to the top, right gear icon, then click settings
2. Under the General Tab, scroll down to Signature field
3. Select the Create New tab
4. Enter your name in the Name New Signature tab then select Create
5. Fill in the text area with the following copy using your own credentials:

Reporter, Calgary Journal jdoe@cjournal.ca
403 XXX-XXXX
